

Matt Woodthorpe

With a background in environmental management, Matt has a keen interest in community outreach and education around sustainability. Previous work has included being a Fuel Poverty Officer at Bradford Council to full-time outdoor education volunteer with the National Trust, to Environmental Development Coordinator within University of Stirling Students' Union, to their current role working with Scottish colleges and universities as EAUC-Scotland Programme Manager. In his spare time Matt helps support a local student community garden and tries to learn new practical skills (currently that's clothes making).
