

Would you like to have more knowledge and confidence to manage the significant transitions affecting children you work with?

Register today for our 'Early Years SEND Transitions' short course, available FREE from your local authority as part of the Comic Relief Early Years Inclusion Programme.

Join the thousands of learners who have enhanced their support for children with SEND and their families through the Dingley's Promise Training programme.

This course is popular with newly qualified practitioners as well as those seeking further professional development. It can be completed online in your own time and includes a balance of theory and practical application, designed to enable you to easily implement the learning in your setting. The course will take approximately 5 hours in total to complete.

Join Dingley's Promise in transforming inclusive practice in the early years, to give every child the best start.

Aims

- To explore the elements of transition from the perspective of a child, family and setting to ensure that the individual needs of the child are fully met.
- To understand the need of all involved so we can effectively plan and implement transitions with minimal disruption to a child's developmental progress and emotional wellbeing.

This learning supports the complex issues affecting transitions and how to navigate these effectively by looking at:

- The elements of transition from the perspective of a child, what is important TO the child and FOR the child.
- The structure of family network and how it can play a key part in supporting transitions as well as informing practitioner decisions.
- Increasing understanding of the settings around transitions and strategies to support the child and family.
- How to build resilience, confidence and independence in children to support the transition process.
- The building of relationships across settings, working collaboratively with the child at the heart of the process.

"I found the course so helpful and interesting. The videos and webinars are very clear and informative."
