

Coventry & Solihull have four uniformed Counter Terrorism Unit officers whose primary safeguarding role is to prevent vulnerable people becoming involved in violent extremism of all kinds.

Sergeant Callender, Constables Powell, Marston and Baines are based at Coventry Central Police Station. They are Prevent Officers' appointed to help tackle terrorism through building strong links with local communities thus making them resilient to the extremist narrative.

They also work alongside Neighbourhood Policing Teams to support Coventry's citizens, community groups, educational establishments and partner organisations with understanding issues around all forms of extremism and can help guide practitioners with supporting materials (toolkits, workshops and presentations).
